Let us each contribute according to our means, in this matter. Letters have been received from persons who are willing to sign from $5.00 to $25.00, when the proper persons are authorized to receive it. Canvass your members for stock subscriptions and advertising, and before another year we will be the happy possessors of a bee periodical second to none in this wide world. We will then have a medium of advertising which will reach all persons interested in apiarian pursuits, and at a cost of but about one third of what is now required to reach all through the medium of several journals. Another important feature would be the publication of patents relating to the production of honey, or apiarian use. Also protecting its readers, by exposing humbugs and swindlers, as soon as it is found they are imposing upon the bee-keepers. In this way much good would be done, and money saved. In fact the mission of the coming co-operative bee journal would be the advancement of the science of apiculture, and the protection of the bee-keeping interests of the entire country. John Y. Detwiler. Toledo, Ohio. Mr. Betsinger made a few vigorous remarks on this subject, and then offered a preamble and resolutions, looking toward the establishment of a new journal. Mr. Nellis did not like a quarrel, and...
